About OMG

2014 – Founded as Lakeshore Creative Services by radio veteran Andy O’Riley, Producing radio spots for out of market radio stations and voice over work for local television.

2015 – Positively Muskegon - a blog style website with the primary focus to be on the news in Muskegon that was often forgotten. The idea was to find news makers that made a good impact on their community no matter how big or small.

2017 – The Muskegon Channel - following the idea of Positively Muskegon with a wider variety of stories. New team members were introduced and their first on location live show was broadcasted online in July 2017 at the Muskegon Rock Stock. Following by countless community-oriented news content, in Dec 2018, America’s tallest singing Christmas tree was broadcasted live from The Frauenthal Theater with over 10000 views worldwide. In Jan 2019, we’ve introduced the new live local talk show with live audience – Muskegon Tonight.

2018 – The Muskegon Channel Radio – Bringing back local radio in the new age, with Andy O’Riley and Britta Cleveland back on “air” via the internet. An app was released shortly after to compliment the Radio, positively Muskegon and the Muskegon Channel.

2019 – Channel 96 Muksegon PEG, OMG will be taking on the challenge of bringing back community access programming to the City of Muskegon.

Micro Media Company

We call ourselves a "Micro Media Company" because we believe that Muskegon truly deserves a media company that's controlled locally. We have radio, written content as well as on demand video you can see anytime to keep up with what's going on. Media should be an economic driver, a community partner and a local source of pride. The personalities should reflect the community and while we are certainly out to make a living, we all come from the days of media where with that living comes a sense of giving back more than you get, not seeing how many of the market dollars you can get from some report.
